The previous note was written by me, as you might guess as I referred to Randy as another person...which he is and a super perceptive good soul...or as my friend Chris Bolen would say out at the Shed, "Your good people." That was the first time that I had ever been accepted and got the label...Good People!" Wow! my head explodes! So glad to hear that you saw him for the kind soul he was...Love him forever...My son....not the only one but ....my son!

Yes I know that he loved you and Pagie. I don't know what went wrong, but I know there was one morning I stopped by the house and he was WAY past drunk....A result of my ignorance of the fact that Andrew had gone through the trauma with me when I got the phone call that his Father had died; as the result of him going to sleep at the wheel after pulling Alert Duty for 18 hrs. then getting in the car and driving up North to see his brothers, having a couple, and then dozing off when he was going back to Tacoma. I had flown to Big A a week before with Randy; as Jerry's Leave had been cancelled due to the Alert. Now I understand that Jerry had been in a very bad car wreck at 19 which must have done some damage to the brain... of the area that triggers the awareness of falling asleep to have fallen asleep permanently. Andrew had several accidents during his life and a couple shocks to the head. Personally I believe the drug use was his way of self medicating. In 89 I became aware of PTSD. Post Traumatic Stress Syndrome. That happened when I got that phone call. His young self was suddenly shaken And even before that when I was escorted into the Ward where Jerry was. I had been told he had a broken arm. He was in a Coma!.. with a broken arm, also.I took off running down the hall and outta the building. They chased me down and made me catch my breath and gave me a shot of something. For all of the striving and loving and caring I could not make him well. I must say we all tried. He will live in our hearts and thoughts forever....the precious little munchkin that he was.

“ He said he had no friends and as far as his life went he talked to no one for more than two years (to my knowledge) Our communication was troubled to say the least. We had opposite bio rhythm;, so consequently, we were,crosswise of understanding each other therefore, unable to be anything but opposites...When he was Down I was UP and vice versa. A very frustrating situation for us both.
4SURE!

For all of the heart wrenching situations that we lived through, he was kind and caring individual. Once we were driving when a car that had just come off a hill across the street slammed into a wall, causing me to slam on the brakes. When we stopped, instinctively he was out the door, he reached in the crashed car and turned it off and pulled the emergency brake.

In many ways he was selfless and unassuming for his actions.

He left a light footprint on the Earth but he will be Loved forever.
