To my big brother. Tony you started entertaining me when we were in diapers. And you always spoke for me. One day mom couldn't understand what I was screaming about then she asked you and you told her I was afraid of the imaginary alligator (I called them shalagasters... but you knew) and you would grab your play sword and fight the stuffed alligator. My brave big brother...I will miss you...rest in peace. Love you always... until we meet again. Lori

Tony, My mother introduced me to you whenever you sang at Governor Stumpy's. She raved about you and she was so right. You are a beautiful person, heart and soul, in this world and we will miss you so very much. Prayers for you and your beautiful family. Heaven is in for a real special vocalist, once you enter into the Pearly Gates. Love, Becky
