Wherever Bernice hung her hat, she spread a sense of warmth and quiet understanding, mixed with an impish sense of humor, a quick smile and an easy laugh, that endeared her to all, be they family or friends. Her even-handed, good common sense, combined with a fun-loving nature, were a magnet for those of us who were fortunate enough to bask in the light of her presence. Her contribution to all of our lives will be felt and realized for many years to come.

Bernice's firm faith in her maker informs us that she has no regrets, as she moves on from a life well-lived, and full of love, both given and received.
