“ In Gypsy own way he was a good man and loved dearly all of his kids. He had many talents such as tattoos and knife sharpening. My fondest memory of him was the first day he laid eyes on our daughter Kaitlynn Joel Riemer (known as Kaitlynn Joel Salyers). He said that is my "KatyJo" and that he didn't care what anyone said that is my baby girl!

My next fondest memory is when he came to katyJo birthday party with no shoes on his feet. My grandmother being the outspoken woman she was asked "didn't you have the decency to wear shoes" Gypsy being the outspoken person he was responded with "don't you have the decency knot to judge a person by what they have on or don't have on. Besides I hate shoes and like for everyone to see my beautiful sexy feet and can get to my toe jam better. Propped his foot up on the table and says here want some." And just starts laughing that laugh he has.

R.I.P. Brian "Gypsy" Riemer and fly high and tattoo with the angels! Always remembered and never forgotten!
