“ You were such a good grandmother and loved your babies so much... That wasn't hard to see. This year you told is not to buy you a rose bush for your yard... Which we thought was strange, but down to the last conversation you never said you weren't feeling well. I know you were stressed and all we could offer you was to put food in your house. I feel like this could've have been prevented, bit I guess god needed you more then we did. Maybe your brother and the rest of your family needed you. I will miss you and the way you made us all laugh. I love you, we all do and you will forever be missed and never be forgotten in our hearts.
