“ I know this is a bit late in coming, but a memory nonetheless. I had the pleasure of meeting Keith in my office a few times. Every time he came in he was in such good spirits. He would sit and chat with me about his life and his children and his grandkids. I shared with him once that my son Jayden (11 years old) was interested in playing the trombone for band class. Keith was ecstatic that a child so young and deaf/hh was interested in music. He said that band was one of the best programs his kids and grandkids participated in. One day he came in with a bright and shining trombone for Jayden. He said “give this to your son so he can learn and enjoy learning over the years to come”... He asked for nothing in return. Just a smile and to always remember to pay it forward. Such a great man. I miss his visits. I pray for Glenda and his family. –Niki at RSH, PC Office

“ I could not go without sharing my heart and my feelings towards Keith. A man who no doubt loved children. We were so touched as a young family...new to the area, knowing no-one coming from a rural small town, And a small church where everyone knows everyone then moving here was scary and uncomfortable for me. The first day of visiting Blue Springs Assembly it was Keith who shined his joy and excitement and love. He talked and talked to us.. So genuine and invited us to eat right away where we met his beautiful family. After our arrival of our second born, Myles, he yet shined in my heart again when he always held him in service, showing great love towards him. Our family moved away and 11 years later we moved back to BS.. Our first day back at BSA Keith greeted us and to my surprise he remembered our family and all the sweet moments of Myles. He truly touched my heart with his genuine love. He immediately started talking about Sunday School..His excitement was evident! He had a special way of making you feel needed and important❤️. His love for children, his joyful faithfulness is forever in my heart, a true example to me.

“ During the Fall Fun Fest, I had the privilege of volunteering with Keith for the Special Needs Party Zone. Keith never stopped giving or serving and I loved that about him. Before the crowd picked up, we had time to visit and he shared how much he enjoyed teaching the children's Sunday School class, but he said he really loved helping out at the Special Needs Party Zone. He couldn't understand why everyone wouldn't want to be there. He loved greeting the guests who came to the tent and giving extra points for their efforts. When one of the kids would take the time to build the wall with the blocks, and he thought they went above and beyond, he would say "that's worth 100 points, give them 100 points for that." I thought it was so funny because the card only had 100 points on it. I guess he wanted to make sure everyone got their card filled up. It was a pleasure to serve with him and watch him love on kids right up to the end of his life. We should all be so lucky.
