“ It’s been years now since you’ve passed dad and I still think about you daily. I wish you could see how the hard work you put into me has paid off. I still remember the countless winters doing doughnuts in every snow covered parking lot, I remember every Sunday morning breakfast at winsteads and our biscuit and gravy eating competitions. It may have gotten a little rough between us at times but I was always your son and you were always my dad. I’m sorry more of your family didn’t put the time and effort into you like they should have. I know you genuinely cared for your friends and for your kids and you showed that in so many kind ways. I’ll miss you until my final days dad, but for now rest easy and just know I got it from here

“ As the days have passed since my son's death, I am finding it difficult to come to a conclusion of his life. It will have to be more of an acceptance of his death; the loss of our weekly phone conversations; and the sadness of not knowing what his needs were in his final days. His friends, at least, were there for him and for that...as his mother... I am very thankful. He had so many good qualities and, as his mother, those are the ones that I will choose to remember and love. Ann Stubenrauch

“ For the majority of his life-long friends, the Lake of the Ozarks was Rob, and Rob was the Lake. Priceless memories were formed in the wake of the Mark Twain boat as we pondered Life under the Milky Way on Moon lit nights. May you soul sail forever into the Sun of GOD's eternal light.

“ Rob and I go back to Oak Park HS days in early 80's. Lifelong friends ever since. Our times at at the Ozarks over the years with so many friends are unforgettable. Rob had an inventive mind and liked to consider new contraptions just for the fun of it.

Rest in peace Robbie (MAU!) and I hope we meet again!

“Robbie and I have been friends since 1974 when he move into our neighbor “hood”. We shared all aspects of life as we navigated the rough waters in this crazy World. He was like a brother, the one true friend who would always have my backside, no matter what the circumstances. May GOD provide Rob Peace in Heaven.
