“ Such beautiful tributes from Judy and Mark, Thank you so much. Ross thought so much of both of you. We all have good memories and admired Ross' spirit and acceptance of the lot in life that he had been dealt. Love to my family, Marcia

*as he stands tall as he stands proud let us see his face saying out loud
what a wonderful life what a pleasant sound seeing his family shadows gathering around not knowing his mind yet feeling his soul
it is but a moment life's taken its toll all the places he's been all the faces he's seen have filled him inside with a peace deep within we don't need to know all the things he has seen
where his feet have been maybe his life was not ideal but to each, their own nothing's wrong with surreal or the quiet alone he may have been awkward his stance a bit stiff hey his body's been hurting since who knows when but he's listened and heard every utterance and jest and I know this old soul is now laying to rest knowing his family has loved him their best* *these boots are worn out I've seen what I need it's time to move on let the dirt grow a seed my soul is at peace there's no noise, no sound no pain or discomfort no more circling around I've found my home please don't shed a tear it's quiet now and I feel you all near you may not have known me but my life's been a hoot though I'll keep all my secrets

“ *I remember Uncle Ross' dry sense of humor and his teasing...I enjoyed hearing him laugh and ever present smile. His willingness to travel to see us as we traveled the world let me know that he cared for us and wanted to be part of what we did...he always asked how I was doing and listened to the response. I will miss being teased by Uncle Ross but I am thankful for the great memories and so glad my boys both got to know my Uncle. ///// “ Still waters run deep... That's how I remember my Uncle Ross. I would sit on his lap for hours and he wouldn't budge - sure his long legs were fast asleep many times! I also remember his belly laughs and stories of his times in Vietnam and we heard many things that he never really said but felt deeply. I will miss my uncle but I will always remember our times together. He was known for showing up out of the blue to visit and then next thing you know he's gone back home! Didn't like good-byes. Well Ross, it's not good-bye still... will see you sometime again!

*Love you,
Judy*
